

GERMAN FLEET SURRENDER, THOUGH PEACEFUL ONE, WAS GREATEST EVENT IN NAVAL HISTORY OF THE WORLD

ENGLAND WATCHING WILHELM; REGARD HIM AS STILL IN POWER

London, Nov. 22. (AP)—The Daily Mail attributes to a "high official of the British government" the statement that "William Hohenzollern is still German emperor and king of Prussia as far as the British government is informed, and apparently is awaiting for something to turn up."

"The Berlin government," the official added, according to the Daily Mail, "has not made any communication to the allies or the United States notifying us of his abdication. We think it almost certain that if the abdication occurred notification would have been sent at least to the United States."

"No abdication document bearing the kaiser's signature is in existence as far as the outside world knows—nothing but the perfunctory statement of Prince Maximilian in which he used the words 'thron verzicht,' meaning renunciation of the throne, and not the word 'abdankung,' meaning abdication. Wilhelm, therefore, undoubtedly still regards the throne as his and the world must contemplate the probability that he expects to return."

"While Holland cannot doubt that the allies do not relish her affording him asylum, there has not been as yet any joint effort of the associated governments to extradite him."

AMERICAN NAVAL STRENGTH GROWING AT GREAT PACE

Washington, Nov. 22. (AP)—America's naval strength will be about twice as great by 1920 as it was in 1917, the year the United States entered the world war, it was brought out today before the house naval committee in considering the 1920 naval appropriation bill. No comparative statement was given regarding capital ships, but the total number of all ships will be about 800 as compared with 300 in 1917.

Twenty-four dreadnaughts will be included in the 1920 fleet. There are now nineteen and five will be built before July, 1920. Three of the latter are nearing completion, the Idaho, Tennessee and California. Three hundred and fifty new destroyers also will be completed by that time.

ALLIES TO DIVIDE ENEMY FLEET SAYS SOME NAVAL MEN

London, Nov. 22. (AP)—The German battleship Konig and the battle cruiser Mackensen, which, although specified for surrender Thursday were permitted to be absent are being destroyed under the supervision of Vice Admiral Browning of the British navy who was sent to Germany for that purpose, according to the correspondent of the Daily Mail with the British fleet. The Konig has been in dock and could not be moved while the Mackensen had not been completed.

Some naval men, the Daily Mail correspondent adds, reject the idea that the surrendered German ships will ever be returned to Germany. They believe they will be divided among the allies, including the United States.

Edinburg, Thursday, Nov. 21. (AP)—Germany, as a naval power, ceased to exist today. The heart of her mighty fleet fourteen ships of line, seven light cruisers and fifty destroyers—surrendered to an armada of British, American and French vessels the greatest fighting force that ever stood out to sea.

The minutely detailed program of submission laid down by the commander of the British fleet was carried out strictly according to plan. The German warships, strung out in a single column almost twenty miles long, appeared at the rendezvous at the appointed time, and were led into the Firth of Forth, between twin columns of allied ships which overtopped the Germans at each end. Tonight the enemy craft are anchored in the Firth under guard as prisoners.

A surrender on such a gigantic scale has no precedent in naval history. Although the wonderful naval spectacle was the same as a peacetime review and evoked little enthusiasm, the haze blotting out the horizon, American and British officers could scarcely credit the evidence of their eyes.

It was an event which shattered all naval traditions and ideals.

They Wouldn't Fight.

Men, animated by the spirit of Lawrence's "Don't Give up the Ship" and Nelson's "England Expects Every Man to Do His Duty," could not conceive of such an inglorious fate as that to which the enemy sea force was submitting. The Associated Press correspondent, standing on the deck of an American dreadnaught, heard an officer exclaim:

"Even the poor old Spaniards, knowing they had not a chance, came out of Santiago."

But for the most part, both officers and men were silent. They realized they were witnessing the climactic act of Germany's downfall. They knew that the surrender of these vessels automatically raised the United States to second position among the world's naval powers, but they showed no elation and seemed to feel a sort of contemptuous pity for the fallen giant of the sea who had refused to fight. Their imaginations dwelt on the foe's shame.

The German ships were sighted by the allied columns at 9:20 o'clock, docilely following their British pilot, the light cruiser Cardiff, which, with destroyers and other small craft, had ranged ahead of the allied fleet. The enemy studiously complied with Admiral Beatty's orders, and it was well for their own sakes that they did. Every vessel steaming out to meet them flew battle ensigns and was ready for instant action with its men at battle stations and guns in position for the prompt annihilation of the enemy's forces if their mission proved to be other than peaceful.

U. S. Ships in Line.

Five American battleships, the New York, Texas, Arkansas, Wyoming and Florida, were prepared to fire every gun in forty seconds after the signal was given by Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman, who said to the correspondent before sailing:

"There is not the slightest possibility of any trouble, but we are overlooking no chances against making the winding up of this show a big success."

The main allied fleet extending over a line fourteen miles long in the Firth of Forth began to weigh anchor at 1 o'clock this morning. The Scotch mist which for days had obscured the harbor was swept away by a stiff breeze, and the moon shone brilliantly. The ships quickly took their stations in the long double line they held throughout the day. British battle cruisers led the way, followed by dreadnaughts. Admiral Beatty's flagship, the Queen Elizabeth, led the squadron in the northern column. The American warships fell into line behind Admiral Beatty's craft, balancing a British squadron similar in power in the opposite file.

The rendezvous was approximately

REVISED PLANS FOR PEACE REVENUES BEFORE COMMITTEE

Washington, Nov. 22. (AP)—Revised plans for raising revenue in accordance with estimates of government peace time expenditures as outlined by Chairman Simmons in a proposal submitted yesterday, were considered today by the senate finance committee. The plans provide for the raising in 1919 of $6,000,000,000 and 1920 of $4,000,000,000 by taxation.

Fifty miles distant and the ships gauged their speed to arrive at the appointed place at 8 o'clock. At 5 o'clock a signal summoned the men into battle stations. Except for the officers on the bridges the ships' companies were hidden behind bulwarks of steel. When dawn broke the sea was again covered with mist, which reduced the visibility to less than 5,000 yards.

Came As Ordered.

Eyes straining through the murky haze finally were rewarded. Off the starboard bow the Cardiff, trailing an observation kite balloon, came steaming in. Close behind her came the first of the German ships, the great battle cruiser Seydlitz, which was flying the flag of Commodore Torgert, after her came four others of the same type, the Derflinger, Von Der Gann, Hindenburg and Moltke. They moved along three cable lengths apart.

Immediately following them were nine dreadnaughts, the Friederich Der Grosse, flagship of Rear Admiral Von Reuter; the Koenig Albert, Kaiser, Kron Prinz Wilhelm, Kaiserin, Bayern, Markgraf, Prinz Regent Luitpold and the Grosser Kurfuerst.

Three miles astern of the battleships came seven light cruisers the Karlsruhe, bearing the ensign of Commodore Harder, the Frankfurt, Emden, Burnburg, Brummer, Cohn and Bremen.

Then came another gap of three miles and German destroyers appeared steaming in five abreast, with ten destroyers to a column.

Six miles separated the allied columns and squarely between them the Cardiff brought her charges, all steaming at the stipulated speed of ten knots. As ordered, their guns were in regular fore-and-aft positions, and as far as powerful glasses could determine, there was no sign to provoke suspicion. Until all the major ships had been swallowed up in the enveloping allied columns the latter never for a moment relaxed their alert watch. Over the Germans circled a British dirigible, which acted as eyes for the allied ships, which, although the fog had lifted, were still too distant for accurate observation.

Quickly Brought In.

When the leading German ship had reached the western end of the flanking columns, the allied ships put about in squadrons. Quickly reforming their lines, they proceeded to escort the enemy into the Firth of Forth. By noon the last wisp of fog had dispersed and a splendid view of the vast array of war craft could be obtained. Holding steadily to its course, the great fleet reached May Island at 2 o'clock. The captive Germans were piloted to anchorages assigned to them and British ships from the southern column closed in as guards. The northern column had steamed on to the regular anchorage higher up the Firth.

Inspection parties from the Grand Fleet boarded the Germans to make sure that all conditions of the armistice were observed. The enemy vessels will be interned in Scapa Flow. Part of the crews will remain for

ALL-RUSSIA HAS NEW GOVERNMENT ON THE FEDERATED PRINCIPLE

Copenhagen, Nov. 22. (AP)—An all-Russian government composed of the general staff of the volunteer army has been formed at Ekaterinodar with the object of reestablishing Russia on a federated principle, according to advices from Kiev. Former Foreign Minister Sazanoff is foreign minister of the new government.

Washington, Nov. 22. (AP)—The report from Copenhagen that a new government has been organized at Ekaterinodar is accepted by the officials here as indicating that this important city in southern Russia has been chosen as the seat of the new government of the Cosaks under Gen. Denekine who recently overthrew the Ukrainian Bolshevik government.

This new development in the Ukraine is accepted here as indicating that the regeneration of Russia is progressing more rapidly than had been believed possible a few weeks ago.

THIRD SCORE OF SUBS SURRENDERED, SHORT ONE WHICH HAD SUNK

London, Nov. 22. (AP)—Twenty more German submarines were surrendered to the British navy off Harwich this morning. This makes a total of 59 submarines thus far handed over. There would have been 21 surrendered today but one sank during the night.

The transfer took place in Harwich harbor on account of the heavy sea running. The majority of the subs were of the large type.

When the Germans arrived it was noticeable that the revolutionary element was decidedly present. Some of the officers had removed the Prussian eagles from their caps and replaced them with a red badge. There seemed to be little discipline among the men. The men took little notice of anything their officers said.

One shouted: "No officer—no kaiser!"

ALLIED TROOPS MARCH ON KIEV

Basel, Nov. 22. (AP)—Entente troops are marching on Kiev, according to advices to newspapers in Switzerland. General Skorpadisky, Ukrainian dictator, has surrendered and General Denekine, the leader of anti-Bolshevik forces, has been named his successor, with the consent of the entente nations. It is said.

The overthrowing of the Ukrainian government and the capture of Kiev by the anti-Bolshevik troops was reported through Copenhagen Wednesday. It was added that the Ukrainian national assembly had fled and that a provisional government had been established by General Denekine. General Skorpadisky has been dictator of the Ukraine with the help of the Austrians and Germans since last May.

SENATE COMMITTEE GIVES LAFOLLETTE A WHITEWASH VERDICT

Washington, Nov. 22. (AP)—The Senate privileges and elections committee voted today, 9 to 2, to dismiss the proceedings brought against Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin for an alleged disloyal speech at St. Paul more than a year ago. The majority recommendation together with a minority report will be presented to the Senate when it reconvenes, Dec. 2, with the possibility of a contest on the adoption of the majority report.

Four democratic and five republican committeemen voted to sustain a motion filed by Senator LaFollette's attorneys for dismissal of the proceedings which were instituted by the Minnesota state council of defense.

SENATE WOULD TAKE TAX OFF LUXURIES

Washington, Nov. 22. (AP)—In reducing the war revenue bill today the Senate finance committee struck out the House provision for a tax of two cents a gallon on gasoline, removed all the 20 percent luxury taxes and cut in half the rates of many other articles classed as semi-luxuries.

SCHIEDEMANN QUILTS GERMAN CABINET

Basel, Nov. 22. (AP)—Philip Scheidemann has resigned as minister of finance in the new German government and his place has been taken by Herr Landsberg of publicity, art and literature, according to a Berlin dispatch.

I am obliged to reckon with the facts of the situation.

"I do not wish to convey the impression that there is any actual impairment of my health, because such is not the fact. As a result of long overwork, I need a reasonable period of genuine rest to replenish my energy. But more than this I must for the sake of my family, get back to private life and retrieve my personal fortune."

The President's letter of acceptance dated Nov. 21, says in part: "I was not unprepared for your letter of the 14th, because you had more than once discussed with me the circumstances which have long made it a serious personal sacrifice for you to remain in office. I knew that only your high and exacting sense of duty had kept you here until the immediate task of the war should be over but I am none the less distressed."

"I cannot ask you to make further sacrifices. Serious as the loss to the government will be in your retirement I accept your resignation, therefore, to take effect upon the appointment of a successor because in justice to you I must."

Washington, Nov. 22. (AP)—William G. McAdoo has resigned office as Secretary of the Treasury and Director General of Railroads, to leave the treasury on the appointment of a successor and the railroad administration on January 1st, next. It was announced tonight that he had asked President Wilson to relieve him, now that the war is over, so that he might return to private business after six years in office and that the President had accepted his resignation.

The retirement was made necessary, Mr. McAdoo said, because of "inadequate compensation" allowed cabinet officers.

The secretary also explained that he is seriously in need of rest although there is no "actual impairment" of his health.

The secretary plans to take about three months rest and then may resume the practice of law in New York.

The President in his letter of acceptance expressed regret at the secretary's resignation, referring particularly to Mr. McAdoo's "distinguished, disinterested and altogether admirable service rendered the country in both posts."

Mr. McAdoo announced his resignation at a conference with newspaper correspondents and made public the correspondence between himself and President Wilson. He explained to the correspondents that he had intended to resign before March 4, 1917, but remained because of pressing war problems.

As yet there is no suggestion of who Mr. McAdoo's successor may be, either as secretary of the treasury or as director general.

Mr. McAdoo explained to the correspondents that he had "absolutely no other reasons" than those specified in his letter for retirement.

He said he hated to "quit the job" just at this time and disliked personally from the President but added that the necessity of providing a living for himself and family was imperative.

A moment later one correspondent suggested: "Well, it is too bad, Mr. Secretary, that as a railroad man you could not have shared in the wage increase which you gave everyone else."

Then for the first time Mr. McAdoo explained his reluctance to take his action. He said he had not yet "looked around for a job, as most prudent men do before quitting," but declared he felt like taking at least three months rest before "looking for work."

In his letter to the President he said in part: "For almost six years I have worked incessantly under the pressure of great responsibilities. These exertions have drawn heavily on my strength. The inadequate compensation allowed by law to cabinet officers (as you know I received no compensation as director general of railroads) and the very burdensome cost of living in Washington have so depleted my personal resources that

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE NOT SERIOUSLY HAMPERED

An erroneous report was started by somebody that the schools of the city would be closed again next week on account of the influenza becoming worse. It is not a fact that the schools will be suspended or that the epidemic has become worse. It is a wonder that all of the children in town and many grown persons didn't get sick after the celebration of the signing of the armistice. There are a good many children out of school on account of sickness, but the number is not so alarming as to suggest the advisability of closing again. Besides some of the children two or three teachers have been sick with influenza. Mrs. Dick Taylor, who took Miss Bonnie Connor's place as teacher of History, is confined to her home by sickness, and Supt. Wooten has been teaching in her place the last two or three days. Prof. Wooten states that notwithstanding the attendance is being affected to some extent by sickness the schools are getting along well. There hasn't been a single death among the school children since the influenza started.

Drummond, battalion sergeant major of infantry in France, had been officially reported as missing in action since Sept. 26, and that further information would be furnished when received.

Robert Drummond was in the office of Norment & Broad before he left here for the army and he has a great many friends among young and old who would be rejoiced to hear later that he has turned up all right. He went from here to Camp Travis in September, 1917, and left for France last June. The last letter Mr. Drummond received from him was dated Sept. 18. He was in London at the 4th of July celebration.

BOLD NEGRO JOY RIDER GETS INTO TROUBLE

E. L. Moore, local manager for the Gulf Refining company, drove up to the Gibraltar hotel in his automobile for dinner yesterday and left it at the curb. When he was ready to get in it again it had disappeared. While he was making inquiry about it one of the guests told him that as soon as he had driven up an dhad gotten out he saw a young negro get in the auto and drive away. He pointed out the darky to Mr. Moore, who proved to be a bold boy and porter, Earl Dickey. When Mr. Moore questioned him as to why he took it he claimed that the owner had given him consent. He didn't know that Mr. Moore was the owner, and when the latter denied having given consent the negro then said that he just took it to have a little joy ride.

It transpired that when he got it he went to the home of a negro girl on South 24th street to take her for a ride, and that after stopping at her house for her to get in he couldn't start it again. He pawed up the ground in trying to crack it, but couldn't make it start and had to go away and leave it in front of the negro girl's house.

Mr. Moore notified the police station and he and Officer Jack Carter went to South 24th street after the machine, making the negro accompany them and show them where it was. He was not disposed to give much information or to make much of an admission until Officer Carter got in behind him. After the auto had been recovered the negro was taken to the courthouse and was lodged in jail for using an automobile without the consent of the owner. His joy ride will doubtless prove pretty expensive to him by the time he is through paying all the trimmings.

FAKE NAVAL HERO

TRAPPED IN SWINDLE

St. Louis, Nov. 22.—How a bogus naval "hero" with one hand gone, imposed on the sympathy of prominent business men, and almost succeeded in executing a daring "get-rich-quick" scheme, which included the leasing of a six-story building and the contracting for $25,000 worth of shoe machinery, all without a cent of capital, was related to the police by the "hero" after his capture.

He also told how real estate men, eager to land the contract for the lease, pressed good dinners and cigars on him in an effort to induce him to see the respective propositions in a favorable light.

He gave his name as George D. Phillips, Jr., of Seattle, Wash. When searched at headquarters, deprived of his "rented" automobile and private chauffeur, he did not have enough money to be placed in the police safe for keeping, and in the column where prisoners' valuables are listed was written "junk."

He told the police that he is the son of a president of a shoe machinery company of Seattle, and that he recently was dishonorably discharged from the navy. When he went home his father refused to receive him, and he has since been living on the results of sympathy aroused by his story of heroism. He really lost his right hand by blood poisoning, he said.

Phillips, who is 26 years old, arrived here with a letter of introduction to W. Frank Carter, vice president of a trust company. He told Carter a story of having lost his hand in a mine explosion on board the destroyer Hanley, and said that, unable to remain in service any longer, he wanted to start in business here. He deposited a sight draft for $50,000 drawn on a Seattle bank.

He let it be known that he intended to lease a building and conferred with several real estate dealers. He finally agreed with George Kingland to lease a prominently located building for ten years, at a rental of $8,400 a year for the first five years and $9,000 a year for the remainder of the period. He gave a check on his account for $700 for the first month's rent.

The machinery was contracted for with St. Louis firms, at a price of $25,000.

Then Phillips engaged an automobile and chauffeur for five months, at $10 a day. He drove the car to a clothing store, and ordered a livery for the chauffeur, the design of which he outlined.

Kingsland became suspicious of his customer, but was told that Phillips had deposited the draft at the bank. To make sure, however, he telegraphed Seattle. The answer was: "George Phillips is here. Your man must be an imposter." No mention was made of George Phillips, Jr.

When Phillips appeared at Kingsland's office to make final arrangements for some repairs for the building, he was arrested and taken to police headquarters, where he told his story. He admitted that he intended to sell the shoe machinery as soon as it was installed, and depart with the proceeds.

"I never made a nickel out of the whole thing, and I haven't violated the law," he said. "I got a few meals and automobile rides, and that's all. I only told them I had been in the navy, and that was true."

Officers of the Naval Intelligence Service want to know if Phillips has any connection with "Warren J. Porter," a fake one-armed naval "hero," who has passed several bad checks in other cities.

HOLD PATIENT DIED

FROM IMPURE ETHER
St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 21.—Impure ether used in an operation for the removal of his tonsils is blamed for the death of Albert R. Mochlenbrock, in a damage suit argued in the state supreme court on an appeal from a $5,000 verdict obtained in the Blue Earth county district court.

Mochlenbrock died after an operation at Immanuel Hospital, in Mankato, and without regaining consciousness after the administration of ether. Julius H. Hortvet, state chemist, after making tests, testified that the ether was impure.

The administrator of the young man's estate sued the physicians and drug company, and obtained a verdict of $5,000 against all defendants.

WOMAN AND CHILDREN

BROUGHT FROM COUNTRY

J. T. Gordon, local deputy sheriff at Chicota, brought in a white woman and two boys ten or twelve years old, yesterday and turned them over to the sheriff and county attorney. The woman has been staying in Paris and it was claimed that she and her children stayed all night Thursday night with a negro family near Chicota. She stated that she had gone to the country in search of her son-in-law and daughter, and that she didn't have any money and had to stay all night somewhere. She said there were no white folks nearby with whom they could stay. A complaint was drawn up against the woman charging her with vagrancy and the children were charged with being delinquent.

HOHENZOLLERNS TO LEAVE GERMANY

Amsterdam, Nov. 22, (AP)—All the members of the Hohenzollern dynasty will leave Germany in the near future, according to a Frankfort dispatch to the Rotterdam Courant. Their destination, it adds, is not yet known.

So far as is known the only members of the Hohenzollern dynasty who already have left Germany are William Hohenzollern, the former emperor, and his eldest son, Frederick William, the former crown prince. Both are in Holland. There have been conflicting reports regarding the former German empress, who has been in poor health for some time, but the probabilities point to her not having left German territory.

The Red Cross is begging for workers. The rooms are open from 1 until 4 every day and there is an urgent appeal from headquarters to finish all cut surgical dressings immediately.

THE HOUSE OF MANY STYLES

"Somewhere in France" With Empey

The men were all tired out, and soon rasping snores could be heard from under the cover of blankets and overcoats.

The next day was Christmas, and we eagerly awaited the mail, which was to be brought up by the ration party at noon.

Not a shot or shell had been fired all morning. The sun had come out and, although the trenches were slippery with mud, still it was warm, and we felt the Christmas spirit running through our veins. We all turned in and cleaned up the dugout. Making reflectors out of ammunition tins, sticking them into the walls of the dugout, we placed a lighted candle on each, the rays from which turned night into day.

Bill was hustling about preparing the Christmas spread. He placed a waterproof sheet on the floor, and adding three blankets he spread another waterproof sheet over the top for a table cloth, and arranged the men's packs around the edges for chairs.

Presently the welcome voice of our sergeant came from the entrance of the dugout:

"Come on, me lads, lend a hand with the mail."

There was a mad rush for the entrance. In a couple of minutes or so the boys returned, staggering under a load of parcels. As each name was read off, a parcel would be thrown over to the expectant Tommy. My heart was beating with eagerness as the sergeant picked up each parcel; then a pang of disappointment as the name was read off.

Each man in the dugout received from one to four parcels. There was still one left. I could feel their eyes sympathizing with me.

Sailor Bill whispered something to the sergeant that I could not get. The sergeant turned to me and said:

"Why, blime me, Yank, I must be gon' balm. I left your parcel up in the trench. I'll be right back."

He returned in a few minutes with a large parcel addressed to me. I eagerly took the parcel and looked for the post mark. It was from London. Another pang of disappointment passed through me. I knew no one in London.

Then it all flashed over me in an instant. About two weeks before I had noticed a collection being taken up in the section and at the time thought it very strange that I was not asked to donate. The boys had all chipped in to make sure that I would not be forgotten on Christmas. They eagerly crowded around me as I opened the parcel. It contained nearly everything under the sun, including some American cigarettes.

Tears of gratitude came to my eyes, but some way or other I managed not to betray myself. Those Tommies certainly were tickled at my exclamations of delight as I removed each article. Out of the corner of my eye I could see them nudging each other.

A man named Smith in our section had been detailed as "runner" to our captain and was not present at the distribution of the mail. Three parcels and five letters were placed on his pack so he would receive them on his return to the dugout.

In about ten minutes a man came from the trench loaded down with small oblong boxes. Each Tommy, including myself, received one. They were presents from the queen of England, and each box contained a small plum pudding, cigarettes, a couple of cigars, matches and chocolates. Every soldier in the British army received one of these boxes on Christmas day.

At last Sailor Bill announced that Christmas dinner was ready and we lost no time in getting to our respective packs, sitting around in a circle. Smith was the only absentee, and his parcels and letters, still unopened, were on his pack. He was now a half hour overdue.

Sailor Bill, noting our eagerness to begin, held up his hand and said:

"Now boys, we're all shipmates together. Don't you think it would be better to wait a few minutes more for Smith?"

We all assented, but in our hearts we were cursing him for his delay.

Ten minutes passed—fifteen—then twenty. All eyes were turned in Sailor Bill's direction. He answered our looks with:

"Go to it, boys, we can't wait for Smith. I don't know what's keeping him, but you know his name is in orders for leave and perhaps he is so tickled that he's going to see his wife and three little nippers in Blighty, that he's lost his bearings and has run around."

We started in and waxed merry for a few minutes. Then there would be an uncomfortable pause and all eyes would be turned in the direction of the vacant place.

Uneasiness seemed to prevail. Suddenly the entrance to the dugout was darkened and a form came stumbling down. With one accord we all shouted:

"Come on, Smith, you're missing one of the best Christmas dinners of your life."

Our sergeant entered the dugout. One look at his face was enough. We knew he was the bearer of ill tidings.

With tears in his eyes and a catch in his voice, he asked:

"Which is Smith's pack?" We all solemnly nodded our heads in the direction of the vacant place. Without a word the sergeant picked up the letters, parcels and pack and started to leave the dugout.

Sailor Bill could stand it no longer, and just as the sergeant was about to leave he asked:

"Out with it, sergeant, what's happened?"

The sergeant turned around, and in a choking voice, said:

"Boys, Smith's gone west. Some bloody German sniper got him through the napper as he was passing that bashed-in part in Yiddish street."

Sailor Bill ejaculated:

"Poor old Smith! Gone west!" Then he paused and sobbed out: "My God, think of his wife and three little nippers waiting in Blighty for him to come home for the Christmas holidays."

I believe that right at that moment a solemn vow of vengeance registered itself in every heart around that festive circle.

The next day we buried Smith in a little cemetery behind the lines. While standing around his grave our artillery suddenly opened up with an intense bombardment on the German lines, and as every shell passed, screaming overhead, we sent a prayer of vengeance with it.

As the grave was filled in I imagined a huge rainbow embracing the graves in that cemetery on which, in letters of fire was written "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men."

But such is war.

OIL FIRE RAGES AT BALTIMORE

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 22. (AP)—Fire which broke out in the hold of the Standard Oil company's steamer Standard at Bowley's wharf, Canton, this afternoon, spread to the wharf and nearby gasoline tanks in a few minutes.

Many explosions occurred on the steamer and at the nearby tanks as the gasoline stored in them ignited. Firemen battling against the blaze were badly handicapped by inability to approach close to the burning structures.

ASQUITH ANSWERS PRINCE LICHNOWSKY

London, Nov. 22. (British Wireless Service)—Herbert H. Asquith, the former premier, in answer to the appeal for modification of the armistice terms by Prince Lichnowsky, former German ambassador in London, said today:

"If I had to make a reply to Prince Lichnowsky's letter or any similar appeal I should say that the terms of the armistice did not, in my judgment, in the least exceed the just necessities of the case; Germany has brought them upon herself."

DAUGHTER OF GENERAL ROBERT E. LEE DEAD

Richmond, Va., Nov. 22 (AP)—Miss Mary Custis Lee, daughter of General Robert E. Lee, died today after a brief illness at Virginia Hot Springs. The body probably will be placed beside that of her father in the vault at Washington and Lee university at Lexington.

In recent years Miss Lee had spent much time in Washington and Richmond. Since the death of her brother, Captain Robert E. Lee, in 1914, Miss Lee was the only surviving child of the Confederate chieftain.

EXPLOSION IN BELGIUM TAKES TRAGIC TOLL

London, Nov. 22. (AP)—An explosion of munition trains in Belgium Thursday caused casualties estimated to be between 1,500 and 2,000. One hundred and fifty dead already have been counted, according to a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam. The injured are being taken to Budel, Holland.

It is reported that the cause of the disaster was a bonfire built by children which spread to two German munition trains nearby.

The destruction in the vicinity, the dispatch adds, was enormous. Assistance is being sent to the stricken region from all directions. Dutch military aid has been sent across the border.

The trains were standing at the station at Hamont, Belgium, when the explosion occurred and the entire region was soon a sea of fire. Neighboring houses collapsed, burying their occupants.

Three German ambulance trains caught fire and one was destroyed. Eighteen of the occupants being burned to death.

Most of the victims were German soldiers who had been plundering the trains. A few Dutch soldiers also were killed.

Hamont is in Northeastern Belgium directly east of Antwerp, and is a customs station on the Dutch-Belgian border. The main railway line from Antwerp to Dusseldorf runs through the town.

WORKERS NEEDED FOR SURGICAL DRESSINGS

A letter from Divisional Headquarters asks that all cut surgical dressings be finished and sent immediately to St. Louis. We must have workers and many of them to do this. This appeal is urgent. The Red Cross rooms are open every day from 9 until 4, and we want them filled. Come today. Though the war is over our work is not done. Come and help us carry on.

LUXEMBURG GREET'S PERSHING JOYOUSLY

Luxemburg, Nov. 22. (AP)—Gen. Pershing entered the city of Luxemburg Thursday afternoon ahead of his troops. The American commander and his staff drove into the capital in automobiles. The general was greeted by thousands of cheering Luxemburgers and with the blowing of sirens and ringing of church and school bells.

The Eighteenth Infantry of the First Division were the first American troops to enter the city.

CALLED DISLOYAL, SHE ENDS HER LIFE

New York, Nov. 21.—Broken-hearted because her playmates charged America was not first in her love, Sadie Delion, 13 years old, committed suicide by taking poison.

Other children threw stones and jeered when she draped the Zionist flag of David over the Stars and Stripes in preparation for a community party. The police ordered the Jewish flag removed.

While bands played the Star Spangled Banner and a block flag containing 276 stars was being unfurled, the child, alone in her father's home, wrote a pathetic little note, in which she asked forgiveness and explained she did not mean any disrespect to the United States, and then took the poison that ended her life.

Sees Own Funeral

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 22.—Attending with bowed head, the funeral in which his own coffin marked with his name and number, 180, was lowered into a grave and a prayer said over it, was the experience of Edward Ola, of Virginia.

Ola, an undertaker, shipped a coffin to Moose Lake, addressed to himself. He followed it, with the purpose of getting the body of a Virginia man who was lost in the fire and sending it home in the coffin. The coffin got mixed with others destined to be buried.

Ola arrived just in time to attend the funeral. When his name was mentioned he did not hear it. Later, when he began looking for his coffin, the record showed that he lay in grave 180.

GERMAN SURRENDER, THOUGH PEACEFUL, GREATEST IN HISTORY

maintenance work and the remainder will be returned to Germany soon. Whether American ships have a further part to play in connection with this internment and guarding the high seas is a question which is being discussed by officers and men of the United States squadron.

King George's visit to the American flagship New York was a notable occasion throughout. British destroyers were steaming out of the harbor to take up advanced positions to act as a screen for the Grand Fleet and the portentousness of their mission gave a note of solemnity to the gala scene on the New York. As soon as the royal party stepped aboard the royal ensign was hoisted to the masthead.

This was the first time since the United States entered the war that any ceremonial punctilio has been observed. King George was touched by the sight of his standard snapping in the breeze above the Stars and Stripes and expressed his appreciation.

King George, the Prince of Wales, Admiral Beatty and other members of the visiting party were received by admirals Rodman and Sims and other officers of the fleet. They made a quick tour back between long lines of marines standing stiffly at attention and sailors manning the rails. The party then went below to admiral's cabin, where it visited for half an hour. The King appeared to have a fine time.

Formalities were abandoned. Admirals Beatty, Sims and Rodman were in high spirits and their good natured bantering kept the whole party laughing. It was an interesting manifestation of the extremely cordial and intimate relations cementing Great Britain and America. During his call King George voiced the brotherly feelings of the two navies, with a suggestion that arrangements might well be made for joint maneuvers every year by the American and British fleets. His proposal was quickly and heartily seconded by the American officers.

As the King entered the royal barge, the order came from the officer on the bridge to the sailors and marines "three cheers for the King of England." Cheers were given with such a will that they brought an answering cheer from the men on the distant ships of the American squadron.

Admiral Beatty's historic signal after the German fleet had been moored at the appointed place was:

"The flag is to be hoisted down at 3:57 and is not to be hoisted again without permission."

WAR RUMBLE IN SOUTH AMERICA

Buenos Aires, Nov. 22. (AP)—Serious demonstrations against Peruvian business houses have occurred in Antofagasta, Chile as a result of a false rumor that the Chilean consul at Callao had been assassinated by Peruvians, according to reports reaching here. The police were forced to use their sabers in quelling the riots.

There is reported to be great agitation throughout Chile over a speech made at La Paz by the Bolivian minister of war, in which he is reported to have said that the time had arrived to take back the provinces of Tacna and Arica from Chile.

Peruvians and Bolivians desire to bring the Tacna-Arica territory under President Wilson's principles of self-determination. These provinces constitute the Alsace-Lorraine question of South America.

The Chilean government, according to a reliable source here, has approached Argentina on the subject of Argentine remaining neutral in the event of an outbreak between Chile and Peru. It is not definitely known what action the Argentine government has taken.

WILL FLU PROVE TO BE KAISER'S FINISH?

London, Nov. 22. (AP)—William Hohenzollern is spending most of his time in bed in his retreat in Amerongen Castle because of the illness with which he was suddenly stricken recently, according to the Amsterdam correspondent of the Daily Express. Two officers take turns in reading novels and newspapers to the former emperor.

He attended services in the chapel of the castle the day previous to the beginning of the attack, which was in the form of a severe chill. It is understood, add the correspondent, that the illness has proved to be influenza.

Garments To Be Made

There are still many more cut garments at the Red Cross work rooms that must be made by the first of December to complete our quota. Garments are needed just as much as ever and we shall be asked to make them for some time. Please help us with this work.

All persons who have not received their Christmas parcel label from abroad should come at once to Paris work room and they shall be furnished one. They cannot be given after November 30.

Surgical Dressings to Be Made

This is very necessary for the material will be entirely wasted unless the cut dressings are finished. We are asking every woman who has worked in any surgical dressings classes to take up her work again until every dressing on hand is finished. You, who have worked so faithfully in the past, who have done your bit and more must not let Lamar chapter fail in this last call. Surgical dressing rooms are open every day from 9 until 4.

Garments

Our November quota for garments will not be finished if you women of Paris do not respond more quickly to the appeals that have been made. Surely you are not going to let Lamar Chapter fail in this undertaking. Come or send to the workroom for the cut garments. We have just ten days more to finish a big quota.

Christmas Parcels.

BUILDING UP OUR WOMANHOOD

Given Up to Die by Her Friends, a Young Lady Recovers Her Health and Increases Weight—45 Pounds. A Powerful Nation Needs Strong Healthy Women.

A nation is no stronger than its women. Hence, it is the duty of every woman whether young, middle age, or in advanced life to preserve her health. If you are sick and suffering don't wait until tomorrow but seek relief at once—today. Tomorrow your illness may take a chronic turn.

There is a remedy for almost every ill. Thousands have found Peruna to be that remedy as did Miss Clara Lohr of 21 N. Gold St., Grand Rapids, Michigan. She writes a friend: "I don't need Peruna any more. I am all well after taking six bottles. I weighed ninety pounds before I started and was poor and weakly. I had such a cough and spitting all the time that I never expected to recover. My friends gave me up. I could eat nothing. Now I can eat and weigh 135 pounds. I most thankfully recommend Peruna to my friends."

Miss Lohr's letter is an inspiration, a message of hope to suffering women. It tells you that you too may be strong and well and vigorous.

Peruna may be had in either liquid or tablet form. Ask your dealer. If you value health, do not accept a substitute. Dr. Hartman's World Famous Peruna Tonic is what you want. The Peruna Company, Dept. 79, Columbus, Ohio, also publish Dr. Hartman's Health Book. The book is free. Write for it. Your dealer will give you a Peruna Almanac.

A Mother's Happiness Made Perfect

Of Utmost Importance That She Have Every Care.

The expectant mother's physical comfort should be her first thought, and all about her should see to it that her preparation for baby's coming be complete.

There is a most splendid remedy to prepare women for the greatest time in their lives, known as Mother's Friend. It is applied to the muscles of the abdomen, gently rubbed in, and at once penetrates to relieve strain on nerves, cords and elements. It makes the muscles so pliant that they expand easily when baby arrives; the hours at the time are fewer, and pain and danger at the crisis is naturally avoided.

Mother's Friend enables the mother to preserve her health and strength, and she remains a pretty mother by having avoided discomfort and suffering which more often than otherwise accompanies such an occasion when nature is unaided. Every nerve, muscle and tendon is thoroughly lubricated. Discomfort during the period is counteracted, and the skin, after the crisis, is left smooth and natural.

Write to the Brainerd Regulatory Company, Dept. B, Lamar, Georgia, for their Motherhood Book, and obtain a bottle of Mother's Friend from the drug store today without fail.

GROVE'S chili TONIC TABLETS contain exactly the same medicinal properties and produce the same results as Grove's Tasteless chili Tonic which is put up in bottles. The price of either is 50c.

INSTRUCTOR CALLS OUT

'JOHNSON' AND EIGHT HUSKY SAILORS SALUTE

U. S. Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill., Nov. 21.—The famous short cat with nine lives will have to go some now to live up to the rep of our new seadog named Johnson. There are just eight of him in the armed guard school, and when he begins to bark, Fritz look out, unless Fritz is really sure he has had enough already.

Lieut. John Ronan commanding officer of the school, is the keeper of this fido of Mars and has him in leash at present, but in thirty days he'll open the kennel and these deep-sea daschunds they call "subs" will be seeking more fathoms to cover their yellow hides. It's this way:

Chief Gunner's Mate J. J. Rath, chief instructor in the armed guard school, was calling the roll of the November class of twenty-five blue-jackets. He called the name "Johnson." Eight sailors stepped forward and saluted. The chief was puzzled.

"I didn't call for a fun crew; I called Johnson."

"That's me, sir," answered the eight.

The chief counted noses. "All right, that just makes a full crew. You are now gun crew No. 1, son—Johnson, I mean."

And that's the way it happened seadog Johnson has it on the legendary cat. Each of him spells his name like the other, just plain "Johnson," and all of him come from different towns. Here's the various Johnsons ashore, and the additional nomenclature of each of him:

MUSTACHE GROWING

SUSPECT IDENTIFIED

Edmonton, Alta., Canada, Nov. 22.—His mustache having grown during his confinement, J. A. Campbell, alias Joe Madore, charged with the murder of Sam Zappler, is identified with much greater ease by witnesses as the man they knew by those names.

The prisoner when ordered to remove his "flu" mask on five or six occasions was easily, unmistakably and without hesitation identified by witnesses and each described him previously in much the same terms. "That's the man," is the positive statement made by Mrs. Mary McMann, Mrs. Mary Jean Scott, Mary Cavanass, Joseph Ledgerwood, Mrs. Emma Laura Lewis and Adolph E. Krause (Curley), whose evidence was taken, but most of which has already been recounted in connection with the inquest.

The alleged statement made by the prisoner to Detective H. N. Matheson in the provincial police station was admitted as evidence against the prisoner at the sitting of the court.

Matheson, on oath, said that the prisoner made this statement in the guard room after the murder: "How do things look for me this morning? I guess they look pretty black for me. Well, I'll tell you, I played with them. They got most of my money that night. Then we went to the cafe for breakfast. I rode with 'Curley' (Krause) in his car, but I did not go out to Mrs. Lewis' with them. The night before (the murder) I heard Kline tell Sam Zappler, 'You ———, you have no use for me and I have no use for you.' I do not say that Kline did the killing. I am not the guy that done the croaking."

This was the only evidence that Detective Matheson was called upon to give except to identify the gun found on the prisoner when arrested at Leduc and to fit the bullet found in Zappler's body into it and say that it might be the bullet used in that gun. The bullet has yet to be weighed and tested.

Adolph E. Krause in his evidence said he was an eye witness of the shooting of Zappler near Mrs. Lewis' home and identified the prisoner as the man who did the killing.

"Joe (the prisoner) came around the back of the auto," said Krause, when they arrived at Mrs. Lewis' place, "with a gun in his hand and pointed it at Zappler and said, 'you ———, give me that dough,' and shot Zappler through the stomach. He jerked the gun towards me too, and said, 'You dirty ———, I'll get you, too.' I threw up my hands, jumped aside and Zappler got the second shot through the thigh."

"Joe then backed me up to the car with his gun," continued the witness, "searched me and took from me about $100."

"He then searched Zappler, who was lying on the grass, and pulled out the roll of bills. He then told me to 'drive like h—i and drive where I tell you.'"

"A SPLENDID TONIC"

Says Hixson Lady Who, On Doctor's Advice, Took Cardui
And Is Now Well.

Hixson, Tenn.—"About 10 years ago I was..." says Mrs. J. B. Gadd, of this place. "I suffered with a pain in my left side, could not sleep at night with this pain, always in the left side..."

My doctor told me to use Cardui. I took one bottle, which helped me and after my baby came, I was stronger and better, but the pain was still there.

I at first let it go, but began to get weak and in a run-down condition, so I decided to try some more Cardui, which I did.

This last Cardui which I took made me much better, in fact, cured me. It has been a number of years, still I have no return of this trouble.

I feel it was Cardui that cured me, and I recommend it as a splendid female tonic.

Don't allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. It should surely help you, as it has so many thousands of other women in the past 40 years. Headache, backache, sideache, nervousness, sleeplessness, tired-out feeling, are all signs of womanly trouble. Other women get relief by taking Cardui. Why not you? All druggists.

"I had eczema that tormented me

I could not stand warm clothes. The itching was awful, so that I scratched

ANDRE TARDIEUREBUKES DEPUTY*FOR CRITICISM

Paris, Thursday, Nov. 21. (AP)— Following an attack upon the ministry of marine by Deputy Bergeon, who criticised the requisitioning of merchant vessels, Captain Andre Tar-dieu, head of the general commission for Franco-American war matters answered for the government. He said:
"We are charged with having commenced construction of wooden ships. We need tonnage. I accept neither the charge that the French government is careless nor the charge of egotism on the part of the United States. We are behind 100,000 tons of shipping promised by America. M.
Bergeon criticises us for not having signatures to the agreement with America. I will answer him. There is no need for signatures in order to secure the execution of America's promise since America has sent an army of 2,000,000 to France."

Great applause greeted this remark. Fernand Bouisson, under secretary of state for merchant marine, outlined a shipping bill that has been prepared and stated that the chamber would be asked to vote an appropriation for the project.
